QUESTION 70A:

Here are some examples of the types of food that might be served at one of these afterschool programs:

Afterschool Snacks: A small helping of macaroni and cheese and water. Yogurt with graham crackers and water.

Afterschool Meals: A chicken salad sandwich with salad, pineapple and milk. A hamburger with sweet potato fries, apple slices and milk.

Based on these examples, if your child(ren) attended an afterschool program that served foods like these, would you prefer for your child(ren) to be served an afterschool snack, meal, both or neither?

 QUESTION 75:
 Here is some more information about an afterschool program that serves foods like those just mentioned. This program may be available in your community.

During the school year, the afterschool meals program helps students get the nutritious meals they need in a safe, supervised location after the school day ends. The meals are served at afterschool programs that offer educational, recreational and social activities. Programs are held at safe local places like schools, churches, parks and recreation centers, and community centers.

Now that you have learned a bit more about the program, how interested would you be in having your child(ren) participate?
